

JURASSIC WORLD PARK

There's already a Jurassic Theme Park with its robot-dinosaurs with few roller coasters, I supposed (unfortunately, I have not had my family vacation there, yet). Following with the movie Jurassic World, I do think that the Theme Park should have something else to complete it, with a more thrilling games. I like to emphasize what I've said there, because if any of you paid any attention to Jurassic World the movie, you would understand what the main lady character was talking about with having the thrilling and what audiences wanted to see out of Jurassic World. Not exactly having an actual and meaner version of T-Rex that come to life, just yet, for entertainment in this century, but rather: let's have unique roller coasters for the Jurassic World Theme Park. Let say, as crazy as the roller coaster by the top of a building in Dubai, but add the Jurassic Sea World beneath it and have the Mosasaur's mouth wide open as if the roller coaster is falling into its mouth, but then the train would roll the other way around, and the adventures just begin. That's not even into the other parts of the Jurassic World. Maybe have a live 3D scene of the battle of T-Rex and Indominus-Rex or the part where Chris Pratt's character is riding the awesome motorcycle with his reptile-friends running along-side of him (so the roller coaster has to be the shape similar to the motor roller coasters, that's already out there in the real world too) while the roller coaster is passing through. Maybe and even better, an actual hologram (since I've heard that's coming up real soon in real world) for those ideas I have mentioned or something similar to hologram. I have to add that thought process because the movie has hologram to teach the children about the different types of dinosaurs the cooperation have within their containments. Pretty sweet stuff to think about, isn't it? That's just few of the small ideas here, but the purpose of this brochure is to advertise the idea of making Jurassic World Theme Park. I would like to see it happening, and it will be like a dream come true if I can actually be a part of it, I guess I would then feel like that red-head main lady in the movie. But for now, I can only imagine, which creativity starts there. I would like to name the Theme Park: Jurassic World Park.

JURASSIC PARK MOVIES

Growing up, my main favorite movies of all time is Jurassic Park I. I am a movies-person, I have so many favorites growing up until now, that the list can go on. I have to say, Jurassic Park I is a classic somewhat futuristic style (for at the time, the early '90s) and yet brilliant and unique, it is one of a kind movie at its time (late 20th century). Basically, which in my opinion, the movie is what started the great effect of the use of CG (Computer Graphic) in the history of movies. The second and the third movies aren't at its peak, but most movies cannot really topped its first ever. Which leads this topic to Jurassic World. I fell in love once again! I feel as if the movie completes me, even when it seems like I have waited for so long to feel satisfied once again.

When I first heard of the coming of this movie or the new come-back of Jurassic Park movies, it was supposedly premiering by the year 2014. I was so excited, I'm not exaggerating. Though, the production wants to make it perfect that they are willing to postponed it and have it by the Summer of 2015 instead. So I have to wait even longer. This year, in a way, is a new year for me; away from my hometown to be somewhere else, a place where I need to accomplish certain things and I do love it out here, it has been full of adventures. The timing is right, I supposed, to have been patience enough. I received my blessings. Jurassic World is the movie that cannot be missed as long as one have watched, at least, the first Jurassic Park. The whole battle by the end scenes or almost to the end of the movie is, what I do think, the part that everyone has been waiting to see after Jurassic Park the first. So many other things within the movie, that when one do pay attention, a person will realize the works that have been put into it to make this movie as good as the first Jurassic Park ever. Jurassic Park I st will always be a classic, however, Jurassic World has taken the classic into this new era and somewhat completes the first movie to bring about the satisfaction for those who have waited to see another version of its classic.
